ODD MISTAKES OF NOVELISTS.

Writers of Thrilling Love Stories Often Get Mixed in Their Details.

The average reader who skims over the last railroad novel is not likely to notice the many faults in the flimsy construction of the plot.

But I often smile at the maidens that wander in "lonely woods" at unearthly hours of night, always clad in "a soft, white, clinging gown." Now every girl knows that the average maiden is too much afraid of tramps and snakes to wander in "lonely woods." And then she is not "pale, but unspeakably lovely," after such a tramp. No; an ordinary girl who spends half a night in a "mossy" but damp couch will wander home in the morning full of mud and cockle burs, her bangs as straight as a cable on an avenue car line and herself as cross as a Seventh street policeman on Saturday evening.

Another odd thing is the way some pen pushers get mixed in their weather reports. Some begin a chapter at dawn, there are a few moments conversation, and then the "sun sets in lurid banks behind the distant, empurpled mountains."

There is one novel, by The Duchess, I think, in which the chapter opens with "a thick, drizzling mist sifting down and enfolding the landscape," and in a few moments the hero is springing out of a window into the "soft, mellow moonlight." Evidently the weather possessed as many phases as Marshall Wilder's transformation tableaux.

There is one song and it is a sweet one, too that furnishes a brilliant example. In "Alice, Where Art Thou?" one verse speaks of the "silver rain falling," while the first one announces that the "moon shines bright," and that "its rays tinge the forest." These seem, on ordinary occasions, slightly contradictory statements.

I have often wondered how long some girls could go sans meals, sans head, sans everything, for, judging by some of the writers, neither the hero nor the heroine is subject to any necessity of nature. Love is an excellent thing, a "pearl of great price." But a man in a dirty collar and no breakfast in his stomach doesn't feel like courting the girl who looks as limp as the man who bet his last dollar on Sullivan and went home to find his wife sick and the grocer's boy sitting on the stoop with a six months' bill.

The old fashioned novelist is played out; the old fashioned hero has been cremated, and the old fashioned heroine sits in lonely solitude, forgotten by the busy throng. The wasp waist, the lily flower that fainted at every breath has passed slowly away.

May she rest in peace! And in her place is the strong, healthy, rosy cheeked, independent girl, who can drive her horse and check her trunks with equal ease and fascinating grace. Blood and bounding health speak from every rounding curve, and the dainty, simpering, lackadaisical maiden of blushes, tremors and sighs dwells in innocuous desuetude, let us hope, forever.

There let her rest, by the side of the hero with the "short sword and dark, gloomy eyes," who rode about on a borrowed horse and whose only object was to disturb the peace of the commonwealth. Gone are the perfect heroes, the faultless heroines, and in their place reign men and women flesh and blood with the passions that sink them to the brute and elevate them to the divinity.—Washington Post.

Many Kinds of Monkeys.

The ordinary reader hardly realizes how many varieties of monkeys exist. We hear of monkeys in the Indies with reddish brown bodies, black heads and faces of a sky blue. There are monkeys with white eyelids, and green monkeys to be found on the African continent and Cape de Verde islands. The howlers, which inhabit South America, are large and fierce, and travelers describe their yells as absolutely appalling. So dreadful is the sound of their growlings and roarings that one would imagine that all the beasts of the forests had gathered together for a battle. These creatures are so fierce that even the most skillful and adventurous trainer is unwilling to teach them tricks.—Harper's Young People.

Consecrating Church Bells.

The custom of consecrating church bells was once common to nearly all denominations, but it is now confined principally to the Roman Catholics. The old form was to wash the bell with holy water, anoint it with oil and mark it with the sign of the cross, and to some extent this form is still used. At the time of the Reformation in England the prejudice against Roman Catholic ceremonies was so strong that instead of being blessed new bells were occasionally turned up and filled with punch, which then was drunk by the participants in the occasion.—New York Sun.

Both Were Nervous.

At a duel the combatants discharged their pistols without effect, whereupon one of the seconds interfered and proposed that the duelists should shake hands. To this the other second objected as unnecessary. "Their hands," said he, "have been shaking this half hour."—Exchange.

How It Feels to Lead a Procession.

"If you want to experience a novel sensation," said a gentleman who sports a colonel's uniform as member of a governor's staff whenever said governor turns out on parade, "just get on horseback and take part in some great procession like those which marked the Columbian festivities.

"It is the most curious feeling that you ever experienced, I will wager a hat. It beats hashheesh or opium smoking all to pieces. It is unlike any other thing that you ever saw or heard or felt.

"At first you are all right, and you hear the bands and see the great furrows of humanity on either side of the way as distinctly as you ever saw anything in your life. But after awhile things begin to grow blurred to your senses. The music dies away and there is nothing but a dull roar in your ears, while the crowd becomes merely a dull and indistinct mass without form or meaning in your eyes.

"But now you begin to see single figures—men hanging from the eaves of high buildings, boys perched on chimneys or signboards or in some hazardous place. You watch one of them with fascinated eyes, expecting every minute to see him fall and be dashed to pieces on the pavement. You are constantly filled with an overwhelming feeling that you are to be witness to some dreadful accident, but for the life of you you cannot turn your eyes away from it. After awhile you cease to be a human being at all and become a mere automaton. You are not controlled by human emotions, but by the magnetism of the crowd. It is some such sort of hypnotic state, I apprehend, which men get into during a battle and which makes them so unlike themselves."—New York Herald.

The Spider Hawk.

The miners of Colorado who have built cabins on the mountain sides know what a pest the small brown wood spider proves to be. They thrown their webs over our best clothes, cooking utensils, in every corner, where you can get them in your eyes and mouth. Not only that, but they will drop into the frying pan, water bucket or upon the table where you are eating. Nature has furnished a remedy and a friend when she gave the spider hawk. The name is given by miners to a small, steel blue wasp almost three-fourths of an inch in length. He can easily be recognized by the quick, nervous strokes of his wings. They build a nest up among the rafters of your cabin of wood pulp or furze from the outer coating of old dead trees. Then they are ready for business.

Every few minutes you can see your hawk climb up the rafters with a spider, sometimes carrying one four or five times his own weight. Sometimes they get a spider so heavy that they will fall many times before they succeed in reaching their nest. They never give up, but keep on trying until they succeed. When the spider is safely placed in the nest the female hawk deposits her egg in the dead body. The hawks live only in pairs, as far as my observation goes. They become rather tame and seem to be obliged to you for building the spider trap for their benefit.—Great Divide.

Grant Allen on Literary Rewards.

Grant Allen's experience and advice may be of service to other aspirants who may fondly imagine that the successful literary man treads a primrose highway to fame and fortune. "If anybody thinks," he says, "that my upward path from obscurity to a very modest modicum of popularity and success was a smooth and easy one he is immensely mistaken. I had a ten years' hard struggle for bread, into the details of which I don't care to enter. It left me broken in health and spirit, with all the vitality and vivacity crushed out of me. I suppose the object of this series of papers is to warn off ingenuous and aspiring youth from the hardest worked and worst paid of the professions. If so I would say earnestly to the ingenuous and aspiring: 'Brain for brain, in no market can you sell your abilities to such poor advantage. Don't take to literature if you've capital enough to buy a good broom and energy enough to annex a vacant crossing.'"

Rich Scientists.

No scientific body in the United States has so many millionaires as the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

At the top of the list is Alexander Graham Bell, whose profits on the telephone are represented by eight figures. Next comes Edison with a seven figure fortune. Brush, of electric light fame, Elihu Thomson and Edward Weston are more than millionaires.

Frank J. Sprague was a junior officer in the United States navy. He is now living in the mansion which was built for the Grants. His company sold out to the Edison company for $1,250,000, and half of it went to the inventor.—Exchange.

When a Man Is Developed.

The conclusion is arrived at that a man's full mental power is not reached before the age of twenty-five, and the development of talent is most marked between the ages of thirty and forty-five years.—Chambers' Journal.

A Unique Log Hauler.

One of the most unique mechanical devices resorted to is that for inclined and horizontal log hauling at a Hudson river paper pulp mills. The arrangement consists of an endless detached chain running in a recess at the bottom of a trough, having special links with log teeth every five feet, and passing over sprocket wheels whose centers are 200 feet apart. The head wheel is twenty-five feet above the foot wheel, and the head end of the chain swings and can be raised or lowered by means of a small winch to suit the depth of the water.

The logs are floated to the haulup, and, as they come around the foot wheel, are caught on the teeth of the chain and carried up the incline at the rate of 125 feet a minute. On arriving at the top they are discharged into a horizontal log haul, having head and foot wheels nearly 600 feet apart, the whole being similarly constructed to the inclined haul—the return chain supported by toothed idlers—and a deflecting piece is placed across the horizontal conveyer, by which the logs, elevated by the chain, are thrown out of the trough and rolled over the side upon long skids.

Great saving of time and cost is thus effected, twenty-five horse-power being employed, though some of the logs are of immense size.—New York Sun.

About Receiving Visitors.

The latest story that is told about Phillips Brooks is to the effect that quite recently, being engaged in work, he left orders with the servants that on no account was he to be interrupted. But shortly after he had retired to his study the door bell rang and a friend from New York sought admittance — Stockbroker Nichols, who had been a classmate of Bishop Brooks in college. This early caller did not fancy the idea of being turned away, and while he was remonstrating with the servant, lo and behold, Phillips Brooks emerged from his study, welcomed the visitor with open arms, bade him enter and talked with him an hour or so. The servant felt deeply mortified and made bitter complaint to the bishop after the caller had departed.

"I remember distinctly," said the servant, "that you told me that you would be so busy that you wouldn't see the Angel Gabriel if he called."

"Yes," answered the bishop, "I did say that, and I meant it. But there's all the difference in the world between Gabriel and my friend Nichols. I'm bound to see Gabriel anyway in the next world, but as there is some doubt about my seeing Nichols there it was only right that I should see him here, when he took the trouble to call upon me."—Chicago News.

Tips and Attendance.

A charge for attendance is made in some restaurants and other places, but no pleasant looks will follow the departing guest if he should omit to remember the person or persons who attended him. One morning when the rosy cheeked maid brought us our bills at the little hotel where we passed the night, my friend, observing a charge for "attendance," remarked:

"Well, Lizzie, does that mean you?"

"No, sir, it don't," was the answer, with a becoming blush and an air of self consciousness that was delicious.

Needless to say that Lizzie was a shilling richer a moment later. The "tip" is expected every time; but the traveler should bear in mind that it need not be a large one. A penny or twopence will be gratefully received, where the average American at home would never think of offering less than five or ten cents.—London Cor. New York Tribune.

When Coal Was First Dug in England.

It was to supply the wants of smiths and lime burners that English coal began to be systematically dug, about A. D. 1200. This mineral fuel suited the requirements of their crafts even better than wood. An unwonted and widespread demand for fuel for these purposes doubtless sprang up at this period, in connection with the numerous feudal castles and ecclesiastical buildings which were being erected throughout the kingdom. Not only were smiths and lime burners the sole patrons of coal at this early stage, but for a long time subsequently they continued to be its principal consumers.—Contemporary Review.

While Examining a Throat.

The practice common in Europe of holding a glass plate between the physician and his patient while examining the throat is recommended. By this means the lodgment of particles of the secretion coughed from the throat upon the face, beard or person of the physician, which might be a source of danger to the latter or be conveyed to other patients, is avoided.—Exchange.

How Bicyclists Exercise.

The etiquette of Rome forbids a cardinal to be seen on foot in the streets; he must always drive, or if he wants walking exercise must take it either by pacing in a private garden or else take his carriage some way outside the walls, and let it wait for him until his walk is over.—Rome Letter.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

"I have been practicing medicine for twenty years and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system."

A Little Girl's Experience in a Light house.

Mr and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich, and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere handful of bones. Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wegner's Drugstore.

THE Sacramento Record-Union in urging the improvement of county roads says: "The single item of annual road repairs under our present system, it is estimated, costs as much in ten years as it would to construct mile by mile roads that would almost eliminate the repair item. The subject is one of great importance; it is too full of suggestions and detail to be treated in a single article; it is too rich in economies to be handled other than as a financial question. It ought to have the attention of rural and town dwellers alike, and that at once, with the end in view of procuring such legislation as will permit systematic road reform to be entered upon. Governor Ladd of Rhode Island has perhaps more concisely stated the case of reform than any other when he says that the poor road is a direct daily tax upon the farmer who is compelled to use it; that a good road is worth going into debt for, just as a good right of way is worth bonding a railroad for to secure it; that such debts are rapidly liquidated by improvement in condition—agricultural, industrial and mercantile.

A DISPATCH from Madrid, Spain, says the Spanish Agricultural Council is again discussing the means of putting an end to the ravages of the phylloxera in Spanish vineyards. At the meeting of the council last Tuesday, several speakers expressed regret that the Spanish vine growers had neglected the appeal for funds to enable them to adopt systematic means to combat the pest. Vineyards covering an area of 380,000 acres have been already destroyed, and 63,000 acres more have been invaded by the pest. The Agricultural Council suggests that the only remedy can be found in the propagation of American resistant vines.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive, you have a Bilious Look; if your stomach be disordered you have a Dyspeptic Look and if your Kidneys be affected you have a Pinched Look. Secure good health and you will have good looks. Electric Bitters is the great alternative and Tonic and acts directly on these vital organs. Clears pimples, Blotches, Boils and gives a good complexion sold at Ed. Wegner's Drug Store. 50c per bottle.

Catarrh in the Head

Catarrh is a CONSTITUTIONAL disease, and requires a CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY like Hood's Sarsaparilla to cure it. Read:

"Three years ago, as a result of catarrh, I entirely lost my hearing and was deaf for more than a year. I tried various things to cure it, and had several physicians attempt it, but no improvement was apparent. I could distinguish no sound. I was intending putting myself under the care of a specialist when some one suggested that possibly Hood's Sarsaparilla would do me some good. I began taking it without the expectation of any lasting help. To my surprise and great joy I found when I had taken three bottles that my hearing was returning. I kept on till I had taken three more. It is now over a year and I can hear perfectly well. I am troubled but very little with the catarrh. I consider this a remarkable case, and cordially recommend to all who have catarrh." HERMAN HICKS, 30 Carter Street, Rochester, N. Y.

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

Three boys living near Sebastopol, says the Santa Rosa "Democrat," on Wednesday night stole a complete camping outfit. They were evidently determined to be well equipped for they took a good span of horses, one bay and the other black, each of which will weigh 1100 pounds, a good camping wagon, plenty of horse feed, rifles, shotguns, ammunition and food for themselves. James McReynolds, who lives on a ranch beyond Sebastopol, is the owner of the above property. The three youths who appropriated the property are well known and will probably be arrested. One of the boys is but 14 years old, while the other two are 18 years of age. As the property was taken Wednesday, November 23, the boys had over forty-eight hours start of the officers and are supposed to be now endeavoring to reach Modoc county. They were last heard from in Colusa county.

Simmons Liver Regulator is a medicine endorsed and used by physicians and druggists.

A Herald of the Infant Year.

Clip the last thirty years or more from the century, and the segment will represent the term of the unbounded popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Everybody should read it. The calendar and astronomical calculations to be found in this brochure are always astonishingly accurate, and the statistics illustrations, humor and other reading matter rich in interest and full of profit. The Hostetter Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., publish it themselves. They employ more than sixty hands in the mechanical work, and more than eleven months in the year are consumed in its preparation. It can be obtained without cost of all druggists and country dealers, and is printed in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish.

A Suggestion.

Little man at the theater, vainly trying to catch a glimpse over the shoulders of a big man in front of him, at length touches him on the shoulder.

Big Man (turning around)—Can't you see anything?

Little Man (pathetically)—Can't see a streak of the stage.

Big Man (sarcastically)—Why, then, I'll tell you what to do. You keep your eye on me and laugh when I do.—Exchange.

Not the Question.

Teacher—Johnny Cumso, you may answer this question: If one man does a piece of work in five days, and another man does the piece of work in three days, in how many days can they do it working together?

Johnny—Please, ma'am, I'm not very well informed on the labor question.—Harper's Bazar.

Woman's Unreliability.

A bright observer of woman remarks that a woman's opinion with regard to her face may generally be trusted, but that when she is called upon to judge as to her form she is almost universally unreliable. He was not a baldheaded observer of the matter either. Boston Herald.

Fishing in the Allegheny.

Good trout fishing need not be expected this summer in the Blue Ridge and Allegheny mountains, for the recent heavy rains have played sad havoc with the hatchery. The rainfall in the early time. The rainfall in the south has been without precedent, and the mountain streams have filled the rivers and either scattered the trout or killed them by their being left on the lowlands and swamps by the receding waters. The same fate has befallen that game fish the black bass. Every river south of Baltimore and Washington has been overflowing its banks continuously for the past two months. Long continued spring freshets are disastrous to the game in the south have whipered nicely. On the other hand, all kinds of fish. Bob White is likely to be in great abundance next fall.—Harper's Weekly.

FREAK OF THE STORM.

A Young Lady Blown Out of a Wagon by the Force of the Wind.

Wednesday morning last at 8 o'clock, while the great storm of the season was raging, Miss Nellie Conlin, a young lady well-known in this community, was returning to her home in the southern suburbs of town from the Southern Pacific depot at El Verano, she met with a very singular experience and one, too, that she will not soon forget.

Miss Conlin was driving a horse in a light, covered wagon and just after passing the iron bridge which crosses Sonoma creek at the western terminus of Napa street, the storm, which had been raging all night, burst forth in great fury. The wind blew a perfect hurricane while the rain fell in torrents. Suddenly a terrific gust of wind struck the vehicle and catching up the covering of the wagon hurled it across the street. The young lady was next to follow. She was lifted bodily from her seat by the force of the wind and wafted like a feather some eight or ten feet into the middle of the road. Miss Conlin was let down square on her back but singular to relate escaped without a bruise. Joe Ryan, the driver of the stage between this place and El Verano, was a short distance behind Miss Conlin when she struck the ground and went to her assistance. In a thoroughly drenched condition she was helped aboard the stage and brought to town.

The horse the young lady was driving, being a very gentle animal, trotted complacently along in the middle of the road just as though nothing unusual had happened and was secured after going a short distance. Aside from the wagon covering being reduced to ribbons no other damage was done.

SENATOR JONES' RANCH.

The Pless Levee Resists the Late Storm.

An Immense Crop of Grain Assured this Season.

The late storm, which was one of the heaviest ever experienced in this valley created one of the highest tides ever known in the creeks and sloughs emptying into San Pablo Bay south of town. Sonoma creek was filled to overflowing and the Pless levee constructed last year and which protects 4,000 acres of the Senator Jones ranch, was put to a good test. Notwithstanding the great flood tide, the like of which had never been seen before on the marsh lands bordering San Pablo Bay, the raging waters in Sonoma creek were held back by the Pless levee with perfect safety to the land and growing crops. At no time did the seething waters approach any nearer than four feet to the top of the levee, and the ranch, owing to its excellent system of flood gates and ditches, was kept well drained throughout the storm. Foreman Burns, who has had thirty years experience in farming the lands bordering on the Bay counties, reports the summer-fallowed grain on the Senator Jones ranch as promising one of the heaviest yields ever grown in the State. The grain is now coming up all over the 4,000-acre tract at a lively rate, and in a few weeks the Jones grain farm will be one vast sea of green.

The Sonoma Public school will close for the holidays next Friday.

TERRIFIC STORM.

Windmills Wrecked, Barns Unroofed, Trees Uprooted and Fences Leveled.

One of the most disastrous wind and rain storms that ever visited Sonoma Valley set in Tuesday night at an early hour and continued without abatement nearly all day Wednesday.

The gale which accompanied the rain approached a hurricane about midnight and few people slept after that hour. Houses rocked to and fro, the rain fell in perfect torrents while the howling and whistling of the wind was frightful.

The damage in the valley was not confined to any particular section. Barns were blown down and unroofed, windmills were prostrated, fruit and ornamental trees were uprooted, fences leveled and a great many houses were flooded owing to leaky roofs.

On Robt. Hall's farm the roof of his large hay barn was carried away by the force of the wind and a number of ornamental trees uprooted.

Robt. Howe lost a number of fruit trees which were prostrated by the wind. Sam Agnew's place Wednesday morning presented a scene of desolation. His two windmills were blown down and wrecked, his barn unroofed and other damage done.

All over the valley fences were leveled and trees uprooted.

The storm reached its height at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning and gradually subsided until late in the afternoon when the clouds commenced to disappear and at 7 o'clock in the evening the moon shone out in a clear sky and the greatest storm that has ever raged in Northern California had come to an end.

TATTLER.

FOUTTS PERJURY CASE.

The Jury Fail to Render a Verdict.

The case of the People vs. George Foutts, charged with perjury in testifying falsely in regard to the Sonoma fire bug cases, came up before Superior Judge Crawford last Tuesday.

The defendant, who is serving out a five years' sentence in the State Prison as a participant in the incendiary fires in this place a few years ago, was defended by Attorneys Maxwell, Farquar and Enos.

The prosecution was represented by District Attorney Burnett and Assistant District Attorney Leppo.

Owing to the unwillingness of certain witnesses to testify the State failed to make out as strong a case as anticipated and when submitted to the jury its members, after several ballots, announced that they could not agree upon a verdict and were discharged. They stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

There will be another trial of this case at an early day, as the prosecution are determined to secure a verdict if such a thing is possible.

M. F. Turley attended the ball in Sonoma on Thanksgiving eve, but owing to a severe attack of neuralgia the enjoyment was not what it might have been.

In addition to the damage done by the late storm the summer house of John Willson was blown down and looked as though a Kansas cyclone had struck it.

The Grange ball held at this place Thanksgiving night was a success. Messrs. Hathaway and Page of Santa Rosa furnished the music. About twenty-five couple were in attendance.

The heavy rains of the past week done considerable damage to the public roads. The bulkhead recently constructed alongside the track of the Donahue railway on the opposite side of the creek facing the Mervyn Hotel, was washed away and other damage is reported along that road.

The sorrowful news reached this place yesterday that Bud Thompson, the eldest son of W. A. Thompson, had accidentally shot and killed himself while out hunting. On Tuesday he left home alone for a day's shoot in the mountains near this place and as he did not return that night his family became alarmed and a searching party was formed the next morning with the result that the young man was found dead some distance from his home. He had been shot and killed by his own gun, but just how the accident occurred will never be known to a certainty. Thompson was hunting quail with an old-fashioned muzzle-loading shotgun and it is supposed that while loading one barrel the other barrel, the hammer of which had been left at full cock, was prematurely discharged. The shot entered the neck and ranged upward and Bud was probably instantly killed. The body was found on the Bruning ranch. The deceased was twenty years of age.

THE RAINFALL.

Tremendous Downpour --- Precipitation for the Storm 6.46 Inches.

The rainfall for the late storm was the greatest ever recorded in this section for a like period. The barometer on Tuesday night dropped to 29.70, with a terrific gale of wind from the south and the storm set in with great fury and raged like a demon for 24 hours. The heaviest downpour was between 7 and 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The rainfall for the 24 hours ending at the latter hour was 2.67 inches. This tremendous precipitation set Sonoma Creek and the small streams tributary to it a-booming and by noon Wednesday they were running two-thirds full.

Robert Hall, local United States Signal Service Observer, reports the precipitation for the storm as follows:

TUBBS' ISLAND SAID TO BE SUBMERGED.

Reports from Tubbs' Island state that the levee near the section house of the Donahue railroad broke during last Wednesday's storm and that a large portion of the ranch is submerged.

The Carriger Will Contest.

This case, which has been on trial before the Superior Court in Santa Rosa the past few days, bids fair to consume the attention of the court the greater part of next week. Eighteen witnesses have been subponed from this place to testify in the case, much to their disgust. This suit has been brought by Mrs. Katie Carriger, widow of the late Wm. W. Carriger, to break the will of deceased, who left all his property to his brothers and sisters. At the time of his death a suit for divorce, which had been instituted by the wife, was pending in the courts. The grounds upon which it is sought to break the will is alleged undue influence of Boggs Carriger over his brother Wm. W. Carriger.

The remains will be temporarily placed in the public receiving vault to await future burial.

Akers vs. Hall.

This celebrated land suit which has been before the Courts for over a quarter of a century, is still dragging its slow length along. When Stephen Akers won the case before the United States Supreme Court, the highest judicial tribunal in the land, a few years ago, everybody supposed that the suit had terminated and that the old gentleman was going to get his legal rights. Not so, however, as the losing parties to the suit have recently filed an intention in the Superior Court of this county to move for a new trial. The land in controversy is known as a part of the Schell tract on the Huichica grant.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, DEC. 3, 1892.

THE TIMES MEN WEEP.

No Sympathy for Others, but Pure Self Pity Draws the Tears.

They were discussing men, and one of them at least was cynical. It should be mentioned in her favor that she was also observant, and that she was disposed to be fairly just in some of her remarks. The conversation had been intersting to the people in the "L" car in which the two women sat, but when they touched upon the subject of men who weep the passengers dropped all pretense and gave the young philosophers their undivided attention.

It was the woman in the new sealskin jacket who introduced the topic.

"Their profound selfishness is what irritates me," she remarked, gazing absently at a stout man who sat opposite, and who promptly retired from view behind his newspaper. "The average woman is nothing if not sympathetic. She weeps profusely over her own troubles, but as a rule she will weep just as freely over yours—if you happen to mention them at the right time. But take the average man. Is there sympathy in his soul? No. Is he capable of weeping with you? Never. And yet it's not because he's too manly to weep, but he will sit down at almost any time and shed scalding tears over trouble of his own."

The woman in the tan colored ulster remarked mildly that she had never seen them do it, and the stout man emerged from behind his newspaper to beam at her approvingly. But her companion smiled a chilling smile.

"Within five weeks I have seen seven men cry," she remarked coldly. "None of them was intoxicated; all were representative men, so far as strength of character goes. One was a well known public man. He dropped tears all over my desk because I sympathized with him over the loss of $20,000 which he unwisely invested. Another, a well known writer, wept through the singing of a Hungarian slumber song; he said it had reopened an old wound. The third and fourth cried because they had been jilted, and the fifth was moved to tears at my offer to be a sister to him. For the remaining two there was good excuse. One had just lost his child; the other was lamenting the wildness of a son. But the point is this, that at one time I had appealed to five of these men in behalf of an unfortunate whose case was the saddest I had ever known in my experience, and the matter had distinctly bored them. The father of the wayward son, and the young man who—er—didn't like sisters, had tried to appear interested, but it was for my sake. They afterward helped that particular unfortunate, but that, too, was due to my interest.

"I can easily understand why a man cries when a women refuses to marry him," said the meek little woman beside the last speaker, "for I have heard so much of that and—ahem—have seen it myself. They all seem to cry when they're refused. Do you remember the night when your old friend Phil"——

But the woman in the fur jacket hastily remarked that she couldn't remember it under any circumstances, and the conversation flagged.

The Human Memory.

A writer in The Atlantic Monthly presents curious facts with regard to the operation of the human memory. He takes the ground that the memory supplies the place of talent in many cases, and cites an instance in which a rare success in point of style was proved to have been achieved by a mosaic of sentences carried in the mind from various writers, and carefully dovetailed into a piece of work which proved a triumph in its completeness. The capital of most writers consists in information, and to the faculty of memory they are chiefly indebted for this. Memory is almost a substitute for genius itself at times, and may certainly afford its possessor that which passes for originality.

PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

ALAMOSA, COL., Jan., 93. All

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would act violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and rolling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed otherwise her body would cramp and be so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. M'GILLIS.

Mrs. Ester Devilbiss, 354 S. Tenth street, San Jose, Cal., writes, October 1893: Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic has indeed done wonders in my part of the country. There has been bought in my neighborhood over $75 worth.

She Preferred the Earth.

If the girls were only as bright when they grow up as in their childhood days what a race of brilliant women there would be. One especially cute youngster has a way of saying some unusually clever things, and great hopes for her future are entertained by her family. She was quite ill recently, and her mother tried to impress upon her the delights of heaven, even being unorthodox enough to suggest an unlimited number of tricycles in the blessed abode, as one of these was the desire of the small girl's heart and the devoted mother thought to make heaven more attractive by the introduction of these rather mundane charms, yet the small invalid did not seem to be enchanted at the prospect of a speedy demise, even with a tricycle as a reward of her well doing.

At last her mother inquired why she didn't want to be a lovely fluffy angel, with a tricycle whenever she wished to ride out through the golden streets, and the practical small maiden rather astonished the expounder of heavenly joys by replying, "Well, you see, mamma, I'm better acquainted here."—Philadelphia Times.

Kentucky Camp Meetings.

A writer claims that camp meetings originated in Kentucky in the year 1800 at Gasper River church, in Logan county, and became established during the great Kentucky revival early in the century. It is claimed that both Presbyterians and Methodists participated in the earlier meetings, through the camp meeting is now looked upon as distinctly a Methodist institution. The great revival is one of the curious things in Kentucky history, and its effects are still visible in other things besides camp meetings, granting these religious open air gatherings to have had the origin attributed to them. Something of the spirit of the old camp meetings yet survives in the "holiness meetings," but the camp meeting has in this time developed some varities that have no kinship with the godliness and religious fervor that swept the western country when Kentucky was yet an infant common wealth.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Stray Dogs Bring Luck.

Mr. Pung, of the Chinese legation, is authority for the statement that a Chinaman can wish for no better luck than to have a strange dog come to the house with the evident intention of linking his future fortunes with those of the family. This is especially true of Peking, where stray canines, instead of being summarily dismissed from the doorstep, as is the general custom elsewhere, are taken in, cared for and their lives henceforth surrounded with the comforts most appreciated by their race. So great indeed is the superstitious feeling that no pains are spared to induce the stranger to remain permanently with the new found friends.—Kate Field's Washington.

Paid in Gold Coin.

All the employees of the elevated railroads in this city receive their pay in gold. The Manhattan railway pay envelopes are made up each month in a Nassau street bank, and about $60,000 in gold coin is used. It has been the custom of the elevated railroad managers to pay wages in gold coin for a long while. Mr. Jay Gould is credited with having expressed the opinion that gold was preferable to paper money for this purpose, because it was neater and less likely to result in mistakes.—New York Times.

The Triumph of Art.

The triumph of art over nature is illustrated in the fact that an artist recently made a painting of some beech trees in an old pasture that he sold for $280. The owner of the pasture parted company with his property at about the same time for $150, and he called it a good sale at that.—Augusta (Me.) Farmer.

NAGLE IN COURT.

In the Justice's Court of Santa Rosa Township, Sonoma County, California.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff, vs.
F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1888, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100, to-wit, $80, for his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1888, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for a judgment against defendant for the sum of $80 and costs.

RUTLEDGE & PRESSLEY,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Dec. 9, 1891, complaint filed, summons issued and served. Dec. 15 default and judgment entered against defendant for $80 and costs. Dec. 16th, Nagle pays judgment.

"German Syrup"

A Cough and Croup Medicine.

For children a medicine should be absolutely reliable. A mother must be able to pin her faith to it as to her Bible. It must contain nothing violent, uncertain, or dangerous. It must be standard in material and manufacture. It must be plain and simple to administer; easy and pleasant to take. The child must like it. It must be prompt in action, giving immediate relief, as childrens' troubles come quick, grow fast, and end fatally or otherwise in a very short time. It must not only relieve quick but bring them around quick, as children chafe and fret and spoil their constitutions under long confinement. It must do its work in moderate doses. A large quantity of medicine in a child is not desirable. It must not interfere with the child's spirits, appetite or general health. These things suit old as well as young folks, and make Boschee's German Syrup the favorite family medicine. ©
